WEST VIRGINIA GIRL FAILS TO IDENTIFY PRISONER.

Miss Nellie Ott, the sixteen-year-old daughter of John Ott of Ridgeley, W. Va., who was assaulted while on her way to Cumberland about a week ago, arrived here yesterday morning and saw the suspect, Charles Sailor, who was arrested Friday morning by Policeman Lynch of the sixth precinct. While the prisoner looked very much like the man, Miss Ott said he is not her assailant. Deputy Sheriff H. L. Welch of Mineral county. West Virginia, came here with Miss Ott. They reached here about 6:45 o'clock in the morning and were met at the Baltimore and Ohio depot by a policeman. The latter escorted them to the sixth precinct station, where they saw Lieut. Hodges, the officer in charge. Lieut. Hodges had the prisoner from his cell to the squad room and Miss

Ott promptly stated that he was not the individual wanted. She told the police that Sailor looked very much like the had assaulted, bound and gagged her and left her tied to a tree. She could never forget the face of her assailant, however, as he held her captive fully an hour, during which time she begged to be released and fought him as well as she could, "That man," Miss Ott declared, "had curly hair and one of his front teeth protruded from his mouth. "And," she added, "his hand must be lacerated, for I bit almost through it. I bit him so hard that the blood ran from the wound and covered my face."

Tells of Experience.

The girl told of how she managed to get the gag from her mouth. She said she finaly succeeded in severing the rope with which making go od his escape. When Miss Ott said he was not the man Sailor gave evidence of relief and was profuse in his thanks to the young lady. When the police had been satisfied that Sailor was not the man they released him.

PATRIOTIC EVENSONG.

Special Services Yesterday Afternoon at Mount St. Albans.

A service of special patriotic evensong was held at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Mount St. Albans, on the site of the proposed Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of Ss. Peter and Paul. Rev. Dr. Randolph McKim, pastor of the Church of the Epiphany, preached the sermon, the theme of which was patriotism, in anticipation of the 4th of July, taking for his text the Biblical promise, "I will make of thee a great nation," and outlining in an eloquent panegyric, the history of the nation and of the Episcopal church in America.

Before the service a vested octet of the Marine Band rendered patriotic selections. Chaplain C. C. Pierce, U. S. A., conducted the service, assisted by the Rev. Dr. J. R. The service was the first of the kind held in the Cathedral Close, but the Rev. Dr. Bratenahl, rector of St. Albans, announces that it will be repeated annually the Sungrounds about the Peace Cross, listening reverently to prayer and sermon, gave earnest of the attraction which such yearly patriotic commemoration will become. Stirred deeply by the ringing utterances of Dr. McKim, the congregation had its thoughts directed at the same time to love of country and religion. The preacher recalled that out of the fifty-four signers of the Declaration of Independence thirty-two were members of the Episcopal church; that the author of the document belonged to the same religious body, and that Madi-son, Monroe and Marshall were adherents of the same creed. Dr. McKim predicted that the Episcopal church will continue to a strong influence on the history of the nation.

Anti-Saloon League Holds Celebration

at First Presbyterian Church. The fourteenth anniversary of the Anti-Saloon League of the District of Columbia was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, John Marshall place and C street northwest. The day was also observed as Stainless Flag day by a number of Sunday schools, and was devoted to instructing the young in the principles of temperance.

Rev. Donald C. MacLeod, pastor of the church, gave a discourse on "The Anti-Saloon League in Its Relations to the League is the servant of the church. The ideals of the league are also the ideals of the church, and the league is able to do work which the church could not possibly do. The league can go into politics, into against intemperance on lines which it might be unwise for the church itself to undertake. But behind the league is the force of the church. The sentiment against intemperance was created by the Christian Church, and must be sustained by the church. The victory of the temperance cause is certain, because it is a part of the great victory whicsh Christianity sets itself Dr. Carl G. Downey, president of the league, told of its relation to the liquor traffic. During the years of its growing influence, he said, the league had succeeded in arousing the concern of makers and venders of intoxicating drinks and in creating public feeling against their use. Mrs. Clinton Smith, president of the District W. C. T. U., who spoke of the Anti-Saloon League in relation to the temperance societies, said:

Rev. George E. Maydwell, pastor of the Waugh Methodist Episcopal Church, also spoke on the liquor traffic.

CAMP GOOD WILL OPENS.

Benefaction for Benefit of Children and Their Mothers.

Camp Good Will, in Rock Creek Park opened today for the summer, and yesterday the Rev. John Van Schalck, paster of the Universalist Church of Our Father, improved the occasion to appeal to his congregation to assist the charity which provides out-of-door life for needy white children, drawing no religious distinct'ons. In the course of his sermon Mr. Van Schalck said:

"During the past four years a movement has grown up in Washington to give summer outings to people in need. Thousands of the well-to-do go away to the mountains or the seashore, but other thousands have to stay. Some live in little tenements, with crowded rooms, with not much chance for a breath of air.

"Four years ago it was proposed to give at least a few of these suffering thousands the outing they so sorely needed, and the suggestion met with instant response. Tired mothers and little children were the ones we sought to help. "Three years ago Camp Good Will was established. Tomorrow, July 1, it opens for the summer. It was made possible by wise, public-spirited Commissioners, who donated the use of a farm in Rock Creek Park. "It was planned and cared for by the Associated Charities of this District through a committee established for that purpose "It has been brought to the attention of the people of this community by the generous help of the newspapers, their frank, ready, intelligent recognition of what the movement meant, earnest editorial mendation, free advertising and financial support.

"Like all others, I grumble about the newspapers when they run counter to my ideas; like all others, I think I could improve them in some way; but when I sit down calmly and think, I know how much as a community we owe them; how they help the churches, and how constantly they place all forms of organized philanthropy under a debt of gratitude. Camp Good Will is possible because of newspaper help."

A brief survey of the work of the summer outings committee in 1906 was referred to as inspiring. The details have been already printed in The Star. "I wish that every man, woman and child in Washington could have visited the camp at least once. I wish that all could know how tired lines were smoothed out of weary faces, how the sick were cured, how the listless were made active, and how these hundreds of city boys and girls reveled in some real country life."

"I appeal to all the members of this par-ish. I appeal to all citizens of Washington, that it will be repeated annually the Sunday preceding the 4th of July. # WHERE EVIL SPIRITS DWELL.

Assertion by Rev. Zed H. Copp That Hell Is in the Sun.

That hell is in the sun is the discovery made by the Rev. Zed H. Copp, assistant pastor of the Bethany Presbyterian Chapel, and District probation officer. Mr. Copp told the congregation last night of his decision regarding the habitation of evil spirits. He said that at first he was himself surprised and frightened at the discovery, but that upon mature reflection he found that the sun fills all the conditions, and that nowhere else in the universe is there a place that equally corresponds to the biblical definition of the bottomless pit Although the rays of the sun are beneficent to man, Mr. Copp finds no difficulty in reconciling the apparent contradiction, for he quotes, "God makes the wrath of men and devils to praise Him." Having established the position of the abode of evil, the preacher set forth that hell is a scientific necessity, "the penitentiary of the universe." He argued that a wicked man is drawn to hell as a stone is drawn to the earth by the attraction of gravitation; that when a wicked man dies he must go somewhere; he can't stay on earth: he can't go to heaven; consequently there is but one place for him-hell, that is according to Mr. Copp's discovery, the sun

OUT GLEN ECHO WAY

MARSHAL COLLINS PETULANTLY THREATENS TO RESIGN.

Reports coming from the region of Glen Echo yesterday were to the effect that Marshal Collins, in chagrin at the action of the town board in ordering the police force of the Conduit road not to carry its trusty revolver beyond the corporate limits, membered that Collins encountered a Washington policeman a few days ago, who not only refused to extend the right hand of fellowship to the guardian of the law from a neighboring jurisdiction, but insisted upon Collins answering to a charge of carrying concealed deadly weapons. The board of aldermen, or town council, of Glen Echo heard of the affair and this resulted in an order that the marshal strip himself of all weapons whenever he happens into "the camp of the enemy.' Now the principal topic of discussion along the row of houses which rest upon the Conduit road, just beyond the District line, is said to be upon the question whether Collins will make good his bluff. It is feared Mayor Garrett, if stripped of the assistance the arrangement with her before the girl of the strenuous one, may not be able to keep the name of Glen Echo before the eyes of the country. Nevertheless, it is understood the mayor informed the marshal that if he, the marshal, should be so brash as to tender his resignation the council is ery apt to vote aye to a man on a motion to accept.

Objects to Phonograph Barkers.

Several Washingtonians returning from Glen Echo Park last night stated that Marshal Collins was also giving evidence of dissatisfaction because the managers of the concessions within the walls of the resort have installed phonographs for "barkers" to attract patronage. This innovation followed the raid by Collins, the deputy sheriff, a staff of assistants the week before, and as soon as the first phonograph "barker" tuned up yesterday it is stated that the police force of Glen Echo scented the possibility of more fines and surrounded the resort on all sides in preparation for another descent upon the places where the Maryland blue laws were being fractured. The latest advices from the vicinity of Cabin John Bridge were to the effect that the midnight oil was consumed at a reck-less rate in the Collins home last night while the marshal thumbed over page after page of the Encyclopaedia Brittanica, Webster's Unabridged and the Nick Carter detective stories to see whether it would be legal to arrest a phonograph.

Thoughtless Ones Caught.

Two Washingtonians thoughtlessly motored into Maryland via Glen Echo yesterday, and it was unofficially stated that all other automobilists carefully avoided the Conduit road. Both the thoughtless ones were arrested, and each of them unselfishly deposited $25 in the treasury, over which Marshal Collins stands guard. Howard A. Wells, who mentioned the Arlington Hotel as his residence, was the first to be caught. Collins said Wells was whizzing through Glen Echo at a rate of eighteen miles an hour. N. McNell of 1112 New York avenue was making the dust fly from the wheels in his motorcycle, and Collins, who was following along behind, might have gotten one or two specks of grit into his eyes, so that he saw double. Anyhow, he declared Mc-Neil was running at a rate of twenty miles per hour.
